

Kath Macaulay

Kath Macaulay is a nationally known artist based in Tucson, Arizona. She is the inventor of Pocket Sketching®, a quick-draw technique that allows anyone to “journal” wherever they are in the world using only a 4” x 6” art pad, a pen, a small paint set, a brush, and a film canister of water — all neatly stashed in a portable kit, pocket or purse.

"I believe that every sketch and painting is personal. Each of my students captures not only what they think they saw but, more importantly, what they felt. The connections made with students eliminate their fear and encourage their creativity while promoting fun throughout the process."

"In the time it takes other plein air artists to set up their easel and lay out their paints, Kath Macaulay will have two scenes drying in her 'journal.' Using only the basic art supplies she can fit into a compact fanny pack; Macaulay will crank out one stunning watercolor after another — none taking more than 25 minutes." — Matt Baldwin, Whitefish Pilot Newspaper
